
Tech company teams up with M2i Global

Perth-based building technology company, NXT TEC has struck a partnership with US firm M2i Global to bring its services into the construction supply chain and industry abroad. NXT TEC's proprietary NXT Building System is a suite of 11 integrated technologies which, it said, accelerates the construction process and can bring a house to lock-up in four days, while increasing sustainability standards. M2i will help introduce NXT TEC into the US market, providing the Perth firm with access to turn-key solutions, expanded business opportunities, and the opportunity to advise on strategic government policy, the companies said.
